

A bill must for the Festival of Santa Cecilia Academy in September: a thrust in the corpus of Beethoven's Nine Symphonies Symphony, who directed the masterful baton of Kurt Masur, September 2 to 24 will be performed by 'Orchestra and Chorus of in four concerts with the reply.

Animated by a profound vision of the work of Beethoven, this is what the teacher: "Addressing the complete symphonies is like telling the story of humanity, with its joys and sorrows

Every time I run the first example, I realize that no one in those years could write something so bold and foolish, almost visionary, just as the Second is more reminiscent of Mozart's The Magic Flute continuously. The Eroica, however, is a lucid picture about the events that heralds era, almost inevitably, the tragedy of the Fourth. With the Beethoven Fifth opens his personal diary, with its struggle against impending deafness him away from the conviviality but rather led him to be with nature, moods that paints beautifully in the sixth. So in spite of the Ninth to the Ode to Joy there is a deep dissatisfaction that the author seems to ask why God does not always aware of the unhappiness that afflicts humanity. "

The Beethoven Festival opens on 2 and 3 September with the first three symphonies; continue, the 9:10, with the implementation of the Fourth and Fifth Symphony and then, on 16 and 17, with the Sixth and Seventh and ends on 23 and September 24 with the Eighth and Ninth Symphony with the final "Ode to Joy by Schiller universal message of brotherhood and peace, perhaps the most famous composition of music history, regarded by UNESCO as World Heritage.

An exceptional event, the cost of tickets has been calibrated to allow a wide participation: young people under 30 years receive a discount of 50% about subscribing, while the cost of the tickets range from 10 to 30 euros and subscriptions to four concerts ranging from a minimum of 35 to a maximum of 100 euros.
